

Eighteen MADS

This year MADS put on another successful performance and played to full houses.

The play "It Runs in the Family" by Ray Cooney, concerned some high jinks in a Hospital setting. Sara Williams took over the role of producer this year and managed to control a lively but talented cast. Well done Sara.

Thanks are due to the many support staff who behind the scenes helped to make things run smoothly but a particular thanks is due to our scene builder Marcus Ehren who constructed a particularly complex window to allow the afore said high jinks to run amok.

Although our main aim is not financial, the money we do raise is directed to village causes. I am advised by the treasurer that we have given away in excess of £5600. since MADS properly began some forty years ago.
